and the Dominion. The proposed three-year trial basis does not freeze the proposals.

General agreement by the Big Ten will therefore be a sign on the horizon of tomorrow, indicating Canada can stride in that direction confidently. The democratic approach to political and economic problems is still the best.

OBITUARY

Thos. Bates, the local postmaster received a telegram last week from his brother, Hugh of Kimberley, B.C. that his daughter Marion, Mrs. W. Grey had died suddenly following an emergency operation in the hospital at that city. The news was indeed a shock and surprise to Gleichen people. Mrs. Grey was born in Gleichen 32 years ago and attended school here prior to her parents moving to Kinberley about 14 years ago. At Kimberley she continued attending school and later joined the post office staff there. Surviving are her husband and infant son, her father; three sisters, Ina, Gertrude and Flora; and a brother, Hugh, in the Naval Reserve. The funeral took place Friday afternoon from the Kimberley United Church and interment was made in the cemetery there.

Two out of three Canadian families want to buy new floor coverings when supplies are more readily available, according to a survey. The majority of them intend getting linoleum. Are they going to buy the prettiest pattern to be had, lay it with enthusiasm, tack it down firmly all around, only to find it cracking as their expectations? Will the gay patterns wear down to the monotonous base within a few months making that hallway look shabby as before. Consumer experts say that all linoleum must be properly seasoned. Poorly seasoned linoleum can be detected for it can be flaked with a finger nail. Therefore the surface should be perfectly smooth. Even the best linoleum should have special care if bought in cold weather or it will crack in handling. It should be left at room temperature, about 70 degrees for 48 hours before it is unrolled. Care depends on two factors, thickness and whether the pattern is printed or inlaid. The higher initial cost of inlaid linoleum is worth while if it is to get heavy use, for a printed pattern will wear off but the pattern goes right through to the burlap back of the inlaid type.

The cold weather has finished the duck hunting for this year. Just before the snowstorm last week ducks could be seen by the million flying over the countryside. Hunters shot them down by the score. The kill was exceptionally big this year.

A cold wave set in last Wednesday night and on Thursday morning the mercury registered 25 below. Since then where from 10 to 20 degrees below has been registered every day.

A couple of weeks ago a gang turned out to get up the walls of the rink which were blown down during a high storm last summer. The boys did part of the wall up and since then an upper part has started to fall inwards. Just like a man with three legs to the wind. So long as the old fell last nothing much can be done to repair the damaged walls. At his distance it looks as if the poor boys will have a tough time to find a place to skate and amuse themselves this winter.

The milk distributors may now sell 10 percent more butterfat in cream than before. The maximum butterfat content of the cream is still limited to 18 percent. Announcing the increase H. H. Olive, dairy products administrator, explained that increased allowances in cream sales were made to meet distribution problems arising from increased population since June 1944. "The butter fat supply situation in Canada is still difficult and very effort will be required to maintain our present butter ration levels," he pointed out.

Don Bond, who was manager of the Shoppers Store in Gleichen for several years is back on the road selling insurance. For the past two or three years he has been in Carmangay helping after his store. Don spent a couple of days in town the first part of the week looking up old friends.

Adoption of a suitable hard-surfaced highway program for Alberta will be one of the major subjects for discussion of branch meetings of the Alberta Motor Association to be held in Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge this month. Resolutions to be submitted will outline the need for immediate action by the provincial authorities in preparing an adequate road program to meet the needs of the province. Action also is expected to be taken on this question when the annual general meeting of the A.M.A. is held in Calgary on Saturday, December 8. The Motor Association feels that the time has arrived for province to embark upon an extensive road program, and one designed to place Alberta in a proper position to cope with the flood of tourist which will begin when the 1946 holiday season opens.

More Knowledge Needed

One of the most interesting, though discouraging, features of the behaviour of annual weeds is the ability of their seeds to remain dormant in the soil. We sow seeds and burkweed without the slightest fear that they will persist as weeds; yet wild oats and tarragon burkweed rank among the very worst.

Most of us are taught to believe that all seed needed in order to begin germination was moisture, warmth and air. Unfortunately, we can provide just the right conditions, so far as these factors are concerned, and yet find nothing happens. A wheat farmer in the Prairie Provinces has not, occasion ally, had more weeds in his fallow crop than in the second crop after fallow.

Some light, though not enough, was thrown on this problem in a paper prepared for a recent meeting of The Western Canadian Society of Agronomy by Mr. N. G. Lewis, Plant Products Division, Calgary, Alberta.

The results of experiments conducted by Mr. Lewis show that some of our common weed seeds require a period of drying before they will germinate. He states: "Drought has the general effect of making dormant seeds germinate, and the process may be hastened in direct sunlight." This has an important bearing on the soil which will outline the need. If we bury some of these seeds before the required 'drought' period is complete, they may remain dormant for years, and germinate when they can do most damage—not intentionally, of course. We still know too little about weeds, and farmers should pay more research.

NO PACKERS STRIKE

There was general approval in the Common Wealth Labor Minister Mitchell announced that negotiations between the unions and the three meat packing companies had resulted in agreement.

Under the new arrangement, hours of work will be reduced from 48 to 46 per week pay will be given for six legal holidays a year, and a wage increase of four and a half cents per hour has been recommended to the Wage Board.

Thus government intervention prevented a strike—keeping processing plants in operation and income going to the homes of 12,000 packing plant workers.

There is general satisfaction in Ottawa over this outcome to these negotiations, and tributes to Mr. Justice and J. G. Taggart were read into the records.

During the past few days, freshman Senator McGeer has been in the limelight in the Red Chamber. Some of the light falling on him has been a bit red itself, according to some of the senators. And when Senator McGeer claimed that "with comfortable plant and food chamber in the Senate is the finest old-fashioned pension club in the world," the senators probably were not.

But the new senator's comments did not stop there. He wanted seniors elected and he is not prepared to have any change made in the senatorial $40,000-per-year income until the income tax regulations have been overhauled.

Senator Ruler, more in the sophomore class since he has sat in the Red Chamber for five years, is also taking a few mild kicks over the traces. He agrees that a senatorial weakness is appointment for life and his prodigious while boisterous than Mr. McGeer's has caused almost as much discomfort among the older senators.

Strangely like these in the rarefied atmosphere of the Senate will certainly produce some results, but it is too soon to estimate their nature. At any rate Senator McGeer's figure skating fascinates Capital residents.

WALK ON CHIMNEY

A new year has been declared in Canada in the interest of peace; the Department of Justice is going to clean up on gunfights. Perhaps by the time this column sees print, an order-in-council will have been announced—making it illegal to carry concealed weapons, ordering a new census of revolvers with a reorganization of them, and confiscating small arms unless private citizen can satisfy the Department he has a vital need for such weapons.

As a matter of fact, a special committee of the Cabinet has been working on the problem of amending the Criminal Code so as to tighten the situation. The Government regards the matter as one of urgency.

Many problems, economic and social, demand the full attention and energy of the country. The government will not tolerate having that energy diverted by thugs and hoodlums armed with revolvers. Recent shooting in Ottawa of a detective who was trying to apprehend three men who were tampering with parked automobiles has brought this whole question very sharply to the fore.

BIG TEN IN CONFERENCE

On November 26, the Co-ordinating Committee of the Dominion-Provincial Conference on reconstruction meets in the Capital. It is fully expected here that the provincial leaders will indicate general acceptance of the far-reaching proposals made by the Dominion Government last August.

It is certain that the great majority of Canadian taxpayers favor the Dominion Government's proposals in principle, and the provincial leaders are not blind to this straw flying in the wind.

Even the critics of the Government proposals admit they represent a fair, logical, and generous estimate of the financial and jurisdictional problems as they exist between the provinces

The F.A.O. Conference

THE RECENT CONFERENCE of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations held in Quebec City, was of great interest to the people of Canada. Agriculture is one of our largest industries and any matter which concerns it, also concerns the interests of a very large part of the population here. The object of the Food and Agriculture Organization is to ensure freedom from want or hunger for all the people of the world, through raising the levels of production in agriculture, forestry and fishing, and at the same time organizing proper distribution on a world-wide basis. This is the first of the United Nations organizations to be set on a permanent footing and its success may have considerable bearing on the future of the wider fields of international co-operation which have been planned by the United Nations.

Surpluses To Be Distributed

One of the fundamental objects of the Organization is to raise nutrition levels in all countries and to plan the distribution of food so as to avoid surpluses in one part of the world, when there are shortages elsewhere. In the past, we have too often seen great surpluses of Canadian wheat remaining unused, while there were food shortages in other parts of the world. The situation has not applied to Canada alone, but has been experienced by many nations, and it has been detrimental both to the producers of the surplus products, and to the people who have been in need of them. It is hoped that in the future these conditions will be avoided, and it is clear that more equitable and efficient distribution would be an important step in building up international goodwill, and increasing the well-being and prosperity of individual nations.

Information To Be Furnished

While the work of the Food and Agriculture Organization is to be concerned with international problems, the needs and interests of individuals are also considered to be important. Information regarding advanced methods of farming, soil improvement programs, credit, co-operation and numerous other matters will be furnished to farmers. It is also proposed that representatives of the F.A.O. will keep the farmers' interests before individual governments in respect to marketing and other important matters. It was significant that Canada, as one of the world's greatest food-producing nations, was chosen as the meeting place for this conference, and that Canadian agricultural experts took a prominent part in all the discussions. It is now Canada's responsibility to do all that is possible to make a success of this first effort towards practical international co-operation growing out of the United Nations organizations. It is a difficult task, but one which may be a great benefit to the world.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—Will my husband be given canning sugar coupons, if he returns from overseas within the next few weeks?

A—The preserves coupons, which also are used for the purchase of canning sugar, will be increased by 10 for returning servicemen, supplying for ration books between October 31 and December 31. This will entitle the ration book holder to five pounds of sugar, in addition to his regular supply.

Q—Will I be able to buy a double-breasted suit this fall?

A—Double-breasted suits may now be ordered, if you wish to purchase that particular type. Production of men's suits in Canada this year is expected to be approximately five per cent. higher than in 1944. Over one-third of the suits are, however, being reserved for sale to demobilized servicemen.

Q—Is it right for a stockkeeper to take out coupons which have not been used leaving just the valid coupons in the ration books?

A—No. You should remove and destroy any unused coupons in your ration books.

Q—My lady friend told me that she had received a booklet from your office which gave her instructions on how to make a gentleman's suit into a lady's suit. Would it be possible for me to have one of these?

A—I imagine your lady friend was referring to "Miracles of Make-Do." I have mailed out a copy to you. This book gives many suggestions on re-making of clothing.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book in which you keep track of your selling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest War Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Government Astronomer Says Sun Spots Are Affecting The Weather

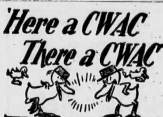

Weather experts at the Dominion Experimental farm took a long look at their maps and charts and then agreed more or less that this winter will be colder—colder at least than last. Dr. R. S. DeLury, government astronomer, blames it on sun spots. While emphasizing that nothing was very certain about the weather, he theorized that increased cloudiness induced by sun spots should mean increasingly cold winters for the next four or five years until solar disturbances enter a new phase.

MEET A CWAC— The eighth girl to join the Canadian Women's Army Corps in Saskatchewan is the record of Teresa Hoekins, Broadway, Sask. Joining the CWAC in Oct., 1941, Terry was posted to Documental No. 12 District Depot, later working in Drafts and Discharges and also in Central Registry. In July of '42, Terry was promoted to the rank of corporal and in December of the same year became a sergeant. In July '45, the first draft of CWAC was made up to join the Second Echelon, Canadian Army Pacific Force with headquarters at Breckville, Ont. On the strength of being one of the chosen few, I gave most of my warm clothing away," said Terry. "You see we had visions of being in Kentucky and eventually on some balmy, palm-coated South Pacific Island, but the Japs decided otherwise." The draft arrived in Breckville about the middle of July, where S/Sgt. Hoekins was posted to the Casualty Section. It was here that she was promoted to her present rank. Reported to Regina in October, S/Sgt. Hoekins is at present posted to Paper Wing, No. 12 District Depot. Terry has two brothers in the service, one in the American army and the other a P.O. in the R.C.A.P., recently returned from overseas.

WINS U.S. BRONZE STAR—Joe E. Brown, screen comedian, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for meritorious service in entertaining troops "in adverse weather and during a grueling schedule."

The medal, highest open to U.S. civilians, has been awarded only one other civilian, the late war correspondent, Ernie Pyle.

Operating under a ten p.m. curfew, Canilla enlisted in the CWAC in Victoria in October, 1941. In March 1943, she received a posting to the United Kingdom, and three months ago was reported to 51 Company CWAC in Appleford, Holland, en route to return to Canada on demobilization.

Coming To Canada Mounted Police Dog

Now Used Successfully In Tracking Down Criminals

A sleek, three-year-old Doberman-Pincher named Prince tracks his man down and holds him just like the two-legged members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The force's annual report cited Prince as a good example of the efficiency of "Maced's" police service.

In the 12 months ended March 31, 1945, Prince has helped on 79 cases, travelling 3,800 miles—mostly in the West.

He was taken to Port Hood, N.S., June 28, 1944, to help locate persons responsible for a series of burglaries.

A stolen bike was finally located and Prince put on the track. He led the police to a camp where the remainder of the stolen goods was found.

Given the scent of a blanket, he immediately set out through the brush and soon located a man and held him by the pants leg until the police arrived.

Later he led police to a haystack where a second man was found sleeping. Both men were eventually convicted. Some of Prince's pals are "Ready," "Chips," "Rough," and "Smoke"—all good trackers—Ottawa Journal.

Report Of Annual Meeting Canadian
Bankers Association

Canadians may regard the future with confidence "so long as they remain their respective and ready co-operators in the national character," Stanley M. Wedd, president of The Canadian Bankers' Association, declared at the annual meeting of the Association.

Despite the toll of war, the Canadian people stand on the threshold of peace with $6,703 million more money than they ever had before. This has piled up since 1939—$1,131,000,000 representing an increase in savings deposits in the chartered banks; $241,600,000 in war savings certificates; $4,008,100,000 in individual savings invested in Victory Bonds; and $783,000,000 of extra cash lying in men's pockets women's purses and the tills of business.

The great volume of money, Mr. Wedd said, carries with it definite risks and dangers, as well as definite advantages, but "if Canadians will look at their savings, realize their strength, and move with confidence, their future prosperity upon a sound and ordered basis lies their own hands." Without national confidence, he added, Canadians could impoverish themselves in a disastrous inflationary spiral.

Mr. Wedd, Vice-President and General Manager of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, who is retiring after two years as President of The Canadian Bankers' Association, pledged the banks through their branches across the country to furnish sympathetic counsel and understanding advice, "to all returning men and women who seek it. Every branch manager is eager to aid rehabilitation of Canada's returning soldiers, sailors and airmen in civilian occupations and peaceful civil life. As for the banks, he said, "we shall see to it that none of our permanent employees lose through having given of themselves to their country's service."

The war has brought great changes in the position of the chartered banks of Canada, Mr. Wedd noted. The number of individual deposit accounts both current and savings, has increased, more people are being served than ever before. Deposit liabilities have increased, and in consequence so have assets, yet dividends available for shareholders have been reduced.

Notwithstanding expansion of their assets and liabilities, holdings by the banks of Dominion and provincial securities—direct and guaranteed—have decreased percentage-wise. At the end of December, 1939, the banks held 21 percent of all Dominion and provincial securities outstanding, direct and guaranteed. At the end of December, 1944, holdings had decreased to 21.1 percent. This, however, did

BREAD TALK; HOWS AND WHYS

During the course of time, millers have been "judging" white and whiter flour. Many reasons have been advanced for this evolution, ranging from the class-conscious person wanting to avoid the brown bread of the poor to the idea that white flour keeps better. Little did the millers suspect when they discarded the germ and bran from wheat to produce white flour that they were throwing away valuable vitamins and minerals.

In recent years this knowledge has led to new stress on ways of improving the nutritional quality of bread. Brown and whole wheat bread have been emphasized but, states the Division of Nutrition of the Department of National Health and Welfare, the only guarantee of the presence of the germ, scutellum and aleurone, which contain the nutrients and are colorless is the presence only of the brownish bran layers. Some Canadian mills and all British mills are now producing flour which has retained in it some of these nutrients with out the bran. The white flour thus produced in Canada is called "Canada Approved flour" and is an indication of the nutritionally improved flour.

In buying bread, therefore, the following facts should be kept in mind: Brown bread is not necessarily a whole wheat bread. Its color may be due only partly or wholly, to the addition of molasses or a bit of bran. There is no government control over bread labelled "Whole Wheat Bread" to guarantee that the bread contains whole wheat. Government tested "Canada Approved Vitamin B bread," which on brown is the wisest way.

not mean that the banks received 20 percent of the amount paid out in interest by the Dominion and provinces. While an individual receives three percent interest on his Dominion government bonds, a bank's return on its entire portfolio of government obligations average little more than one and a half percent, because it consists in the main of short term bonds, treasury bills and Dominion of Canada deposit certificates, all with lower yields.

The 1944 revision of the Bank Act reduced the par value of bank shares from $100 to $10 a share, in an attempt to bring about a wider diffusion of ownership of the chartered banks. In the year since this change was made there has been an increase of 1,442 in the number of persons holding bank shares. This, Mr. Wedd said, "is a desirable trend which we hope will continue. The greater the extent to which Canadians participate in the ownership of their banks. We know widely will Canadian banking be understood and approved."

"During the war," Mr. Wedd concluded, "the banks of Canada have endeavored to do their share. The range and efficiency of the services performed—both those which yield revenue and those rendered gratis—are matters in which we can take pride, especially taking into account our expanded duties, expanded pay rolls, and expanded tax bills. Both now and throughout the postwar period the banks will be found keen and ready to meet the needs and emergencies of peace as ably as they met and served the nation's urgent demands in war."

Remembrance Day
Service Attended
By Large Crowd

The Remembrance Service held in the Community Hall Sunday morning was well attended by the veterans of two wars and towns people. Rev. D. A. Ford, D.A., and Envoy A. J. Walker of the Salvation Army were the speakers.

After the services in the hall the congregation gathered at the monument where wreaths were laid. After a two minute silence the Last Post was sounded by Elliot Evans ending the ceremony.

BLACK FLAGS
on U Boats

When Nazi U-boat commanders hoisted black flags of surrender, it was a "go ahead" signal to the three out of every eight Canadians who normally depend for their livelihood on export trade.

For five years the flow of foreign trade has been largely a government responsibility. But now, to help create peacetime jobs, Canadian enterprise must do its full share in finding customers abroad. This means doing business all over the world, in strange and distant cities, in a hundred languages and currencies.

Canadian banks have a key role in this complicated but essential peacetime task. Every day their foreign branches and correspondents arrange credits, handle documents and perform other intricate operations to bring buyers and sellers together across the obstacles of distance, language and custom.

This banking service is of primary importance to business and to every Canadian worker as Canada turns to the task of re-creating trade abroad to provide jobs at home.
